TERMS AND CONDITIONS

This is a public and mail bid auction conducted by Classical Numismatic Group, Inc. (CNG). Bidding in the auction constitutes acceptance of the following terms and conditions.

1. The property listed in this catalogue is offered for sale by CNG for itself and as agent for various owners and other consignors. We reserve the right to reject any bid, to determine the opening price, to set bidding increments, to vary the order of the auction, to reopen bidding in the case of a dispute, to withdraw any lot, to bid on behalf of CNG, to bid on behalf of the consignor, and to permit the consignor to bid on his own material whether to protect a lot or for any other purpose.
2. All lots are subject to a 10 % Buyer's fee which will be added to the hammer price.
3. All coins are guaranteed genuine. Grading and other descriptions are the opinion of the cataloguer, and no warranty is expressed or implied. Please note that an auction sale is not an approval sale. Lots examined prior to the sale and lots purchased by floor bidders (including bidders executing commission bids on behalf of other parties) may not be returned for any reason except authenticity. All claims of misdescription and all claims of return for any other reason, except claims regarding authenticity, must be made within 5 days of receipt of material. Estimates are intended as a guide only and not as a statement of opinion of value.
4. Terms are for cash, with invoices being due and payable immediately upon receipt. Interest and collection charges of 1.5% per month, from the date of the auction, shall be payable on invoices not settled within 30 days of the sale date. Payment by check must be made in either US dollars ($) drawn on a US bank or British sterling (£) drawn on a British bank. All successful bidders outside North America and the United Kingdom will be invoiced an additional $15 fee for bank charges, but buyers may deduct this fee if payment is made as required above. Payment may be made by Visa or Mastercard (Access); however, a 3.5% surcharge is made for the use of a credit card.
5. Bidders not known to us must provide us with satisfactory credit references or pay a deposit as determined at CNG's discretion before bidding. Minors are not permitted to bid without written consent of a parent guaranteeing payment. CNG may require payment in full from any bidder prior to delivery of lots. Title does not pass until lots are paid in full. Upon receipt of lots, the buyer assumes full responsibility for loss or damage.
6. Estimates are in U.S. dollars ($US) and bids must be in even dollar ($) amounts. CNG will execute mail bids on behalf of mail bidders. Where competition permits, mail bids will be executed at approximately 10% over the next highest bid. Please note that bids below estimate are rarely reduced, but bids above estimate stand a good chance of being reduced. In the case of identical bids, the earliest bid wins. A mail bid has priority over an identical floor bid. Bid by lot number. No lots will be broken. Bidders are responsible for errors in bidding. Check your bid sheet carefully.
7. A word on Reserves. CNG reserves the right to place a reserve on any lot. However, no reserve will be higher than the estimate, and ordinarily lots are reserved at 60% of estimate.
8. Bidders personally guarantee payment for their successful bids, including bidders executing commission bids from other parties and bidders representing corporations or other entities. Buyers accepting commission bids from other parties do so at their own risk and remain responsible to CNG for full settlement under these Terms and Conditions.
9. In the event a successful bidder fails to make any payment when due, CNG reserves the right to resell the material, and the bidder agrees to pay for the reasonable cost of such a sale and also to pay any difference between the resale price and the previously successful bid. CNG also reserves the right to offset any sums due from a successful bidder against any future consignment or purchase or monies or goods in possession of CNG.
10. Sales tax, postage, handling and insurance are the responsibility of the buyer and are added to all invoices where appropriate. Postage, handling and insurance for book lots will be invoiced separately from coin lots. On any tax not paid by the purchaser which should have been paid, even if not invoiced by CNG, the purchaser agrees to pay the same on demand together with any interest or penalty that may be assessed. It is the responsibility of the buyer to comply with foreign customs and other regulations.
11. Prices Realised are published after the sale and are mailed to all subscribers to CNG publications.
12. Bidders consent to waive any claim for incidental or consequential damages arising from this auction. The sole remedy that any participant in the auction shall have for any claim or controversy arising out of the auction shall be a refund of the original purchase price and buyer's premium paid by the participant.
13. All rights granted by CNG or otherwise available to bidders and purchasers, under these Terms and Conditions or otherwise, are personal and may not be assigned or transferred to any other person or entity, whether by operation of law or otherwise. No third party may rely on any benefit or right conferred by these Terms and Conditions. Bidders acting as agents must disclose the agency in writing to CNG prior to the auction; otherwise rights are limited to the agent and are not transferable to the undisclosed principal.
14. Any dispute regarding this auction shall be adjudicated only by a state or federal court located in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, and all bidders submit themselves to the personal jurisdiction of these courts for this purpose. In any dispute regarding this auction, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover its reasonable attorney fees.

GOOD LUCK, and remember to mail your bid sheet early.
Bid sheets must be received by December 6, 1994.

Thomas B. Lesure

It is with great pleasure that Classical Numismatic Group, Inc. presents the collection of ancient Greek and Roman coinage, in particular the specialized collection of Janiform coinage, formed by Thomas B. Lesure of Phoenix, Arizona.

Although Tom's interest in numismatics began in his school days, it wasn't until his professional career as a travel writer and guide book author that his regard for ancient coins came to fruition. This was a direct result of his domestic and especially foreign travel that developed an avid, on-going enthusiasm for local, regional and national arts, crafts and cultures. As a result of numerous visits to Italy, Greece and most of the other Mediterranean countries, his numismatic involvement focused specifically on the coins of ancient Greece, Rome and their extended empires.

His first emphasis was on eagle reverses, a continuation of an earlier appeal in U.S. coins that feature eagles. But his "true love" soon manifested itself in Janus/Janiform Greek and Roman coins. The reasons: few other numismatists seemed to realize the potentiality; the challenge of acquiring difficult-to-find coins and variations (the Sydenham 64 series is a good example, not always obvious to some collectors, and in itself a challenge to obtain the numerous obverse and reverse varieties); the significance of Janus' ability to view the past and future; and, somewhat whimsically, as a symbol – still used by modern Italian and Greek artists – sometimes in altered form – of his Gemini birth sign. Both Victor England and the late John Barton were especially helpful and aggressive in supplying rare coins for this part of the collection.

Tom was born in Massachusetts but has lived more than half of his life, with his wife Nancy (a native Pennsylvanian), in their adopted state of Arizona. He was graduated from Boston University, receiving a BS degree in Journalism (cum laude), and did graduate study there, also. He worked in radio as a news and travel editor for eight years at the Yankee Network and the ABC affiliate in Boston before deciding to become a full-time freelance travel writer and author (a decision influenced by a honeymoon cruise to South America).

Since then, in the last 40+ years, he has had some 3,000 travel articles published in major U.S. and overseas newspapers and magazines. In addition, he has written 14 travel books plus parts of such series as Fodor, Frommer, Doubleday, Gousha and other guidebooks. His travels have taken him to more than 95 countries and he's still ready to add more and write about them. His favorites are the U.K., New Zealand, Denmark, Austria, Switzerland and the Bavaria region of Germany.

He is a member of the American Society of Journalists and Authors, the Authors' Guild, the Society of Professional Journalists, the Dons of Arizona (a public service group that preserves and presents Southwest lore and history) and a former charter member of the Society of American Travel Writers. He has received several national awards for his writing.

Tom and Nancy have five children, three boys and two girls, and eight grandchildren. In addition to their love for travel, especially cruising, and being travel consultants, interest in representative ethnic arts and crafts remain high. Ancient coins, too. Nancy also loves to garden; Tom prefers to watch her and read a good book from his 4,000 volume (and still growing) library.

Coins from his collection are noted as: Thomas B. Lesure Collection.

The Lesure Collection of Janiform Coinage

Janiform is the term used by numismatists to denote a double-faced head (one to the left, the other right), and so-derived from one of the most common depictions of a double-faced portrait in ancient art – that of Janus, the Roman god of all beginnings. While the Lesure collection is well-represented in coins depicting Janus, it also has many other coins, including Greek, depicting a janiform head. Indeed, like many other artistic conventions, the Romans probably borrowed the double-faced depiction used to portray their god Janus. A double-faced portrait was popular in ancient Greek art to show plurality and duality of nature just as it is used for the same purpose by artists today.

Janus, in Roman religion, was actually the patron deity of doorways (januae) and archways (jani). The archways or jani in Rome were used for ceremonies marking the departure of the army. The most noteworthy of these jani was the Janus Geminus, at the north side of the Forum, which was ceremonially closed to mark peace (see lot 57).

Janus is most often regarded as the god of all beginnings, and his association with doorways came later in the development of his cult. He was invoked as the first of any gods in regular liturgies, and the month of January is named for him; his festival taking place on January 9th, the Agonium. He was represented in art with or without a beard, and herein lies a point of confusion. Many numismatic scholars believe that the janiform deity depicted on mostly Republican coins as beardless is possibly meant to represent the Dioscuri (the Gemini - Castor and Pollux).

The cult of the Dioscuri at Rome goes back traditionally to 484 BC. Of course, the normal artistic depiction of the Dioscuri is as two youths on horseback, holding spears and wearing their distinctive caps (pilei). But as the references disagree on the exact identification of the double-faced deity on many coins, the following catalogue of the Lesure collection simply uses the term "Janiform head" to describe it.

Classical Numismatic Group, Inc.

The reverse type is identified as an adaptation of the denarius of Julius Caesar with the reverse of elephant trampling a serpent. Scheers describes this reverse as an elephant with indeterminate design above. Might we have an interesting propaganda point here? Caesar's design symbolizes Rome (the elephant) trampling her enemies (the serpent). Caesar's foes, the Remi, have a design with the serpent in a superior position above the elephant.

122. THRACE, Abdera. Circa 386-375 BC. AR Tetradrachm (11.41 gm). ΑΒΔΗ, griffin seated left, preparing to spring / ΕΠΙ ΖΗΝΩΝ, Hermes, nude but for cloak, standing right, holding caduceus in right hand, left out-stretched; kantharos to right. May 447 (A301/P354). EF, obverse die showing signs of deterioration, reverse weakly struck on head of Hermes. Still nicer than any of the four specimens cited by May for this magistrate, and confirms that Hermes is holding a caduceus, which is unclear on the other examples. ($2500)

Rare Tetradrachm of Apollonia Pontika

125. Black Sea Area, Apollonia Pontika. Circa 400 BC. AR Tetradrachm (17.13 gm). Laureate head of Apollo right / Anchor, A and crayfish; magistrate ..ZHAO.... Cf. SNG Copenhagen 455. Toned VF. Rare. ($5000)

126. THRACE, Kings of, Lysimachos. 323-281 BC. AV Stater (8.51 gm). Amphipolis mint? Circa 288-281 BC. Head of deified Alexander / Athena Nikephoros seated left; monogram in inner left field; KP monogram in exergue. Thompson -; Müller -. Lustrous superb EF. ($7500)

Thompson calls Amphipolis the chief mint of Lysimachos in the latter part of his reign, but ascribes no gold to that mint. Similar monograms appear on gold and silver issues of Alexander III and Lysimachos from Byzantion and other uncertain northern Greek mints, and this issue may be ascribed to the mint of Amphipolis.

Classical Numismatic Group, Inc.

127. Lysimachos. 323-281 BC. AR Tetradrachm (16.86 gm). Byzantion mint. Posthumous issue, circa 3rd Century BC. Cahn, "Zwei Griechische Miszellen", in Numismatics Witness to History, pl. 13, 1-7. Superb EF, glossy undisturbed black patina. ($1250)

Possibly the finest numismatic portrait of this Persian satrap who led the armies of Artaxerxes against the usurper Cyrus in 401 BC. The story of the Greek mercenaries involved in this Persian civil war is told by Xenophon in his Anabasis. The successful Tissaphernes later became the victim of court intrigues and was put to death in 395 BC.

154. Kyzikos. Circa 2nd-1st Century BC. \AA 4 Onkia Weight (130.07 gm). KYZI, lighted torch, TETPA. VF, heavy green patina. A rare and unusual Hellenistic civic weight. ($1000)

Very Rare Lesbos Billon Stater

157. LESBOS. Circa 550-500 BC. Billon Stater (13.48 gm). Foreparts of three confronted lions, two heads in profile; the heads combine to form a facing panther's head / Small incuse punch. Babelon, Traité I, 548 (pl. XIV, 3). Toned VF, exceptional strike, original patina. Very rare. ($1500)

A remarkable early example of the use of illusion in numismatic art. This piece, the best preserved of a small group, reveals that there are actually three lions present. The body of the third lion, coming down from the top of the design, is usually off the flan.

158. LESBOS. Circa 550-500 BC. Billon 1/6 Stater (1.94 gm). Heads of two confronted boars; the heads combine to form a facing panther's head / Small incuse punch. Cf. Babelon, Traité I, 557. Toned VF, original patina. ($400)

216. Achaemenid Kings. Circa 500-485 BC. AR Siglos (5.41 gm). Persian king or hero right, in kneeling-running stance, holding spear and bow / Incuse punch. Carradice Type IIIa, 14-15. Toned good VF, exceptional strike on a full flan. ($300)

217. PARTHIA, Kings of. Arsakes II. 211-191 BC. AR Drachm (3.77 gm). Hekatompylos mint. Head left, wearing bashlyk / ΑΡΣΑΚΟΥ, archer seated; A to right. Cf. Shore 3; Sellwood 5.1. EF. Very rare. ($1500)

The portrait is of the fine style usually associated with the issues of Arsakes I. Either a mule of Arsakes I and Arsakes II, or struck very early in the latter's reign.

218. Mithradates II. 123-88 BC. AR Tetradrachm (16.10 gm). Seleukeia mint. Diademed bust left / Archer seated right; monogram behind, palm branch before. Shore 68; Sellwood 24.5. Toned good VF, fully centered portrait. Rare. ($3500)

224. SASSANIAN Kings. Queen Buran. 630-631 AD. AR Drachm (4.12 gm). SK=Sakastan mint. Year 3. Crowned bust / Fire altar flanked by attendants. Göbl 229; Cf. MACW 1241. VF. Rare and short-lived ruler. ($400)

Five years of internecine conflict followed the death of the long ruling Sassanian king Khusr II in 628, as family members competed for power. In 632 his eldest daughter Buran came to the throne as the first queen to rule the kingdom in her own name. She died of unknown causes (unlikely of natural origin) after only 16 months. The eastern mint of Sakastan struck coins for her regnal year three, probably for the duration of her sister Azarmidkht's brief reign of 631-632.

An Exceptional Offering of Rare Baktrian Silver

- 225A. BAKTRIA, Indo-Greek Kings. Demetrios I. Circa 200-190 BC. AR Tetradrachm (16.96 gm). Balkh mint? Bust right, wearing elephant head-dress / ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ ΔΗΜΗΤΡΙΟΥ, nude Herakles crowning himself and holding club and lion skin; monogram. MIG 103b; Bopearachchi Série 1B. Good VF on a broad flan. ($4000)

Three Extremely Rare "Pedigree" Tetradrachms

- 225B. Agathokles. Circa 190-180 BC. AR Tetradrachm (16.63 gm). Merv mint? ΕΥΘΥΔΗΜΟΥ ΘΕΟΥ, diademed bust of Euthydemos / ΒΑΣΙΛΕΥΟΝΤΟΣ ΔΙΚΑΙΟΥ ΑΓΑΘΟΚΛΕΟΥΣ, nude Herakles reclining on rock, club resting on rock beside him; monogram. MIG 145a; Bopearachchi Série 16B. Good VF. Extremely rare. ($12,500)

The "pedigree" coinage of Agathokles and Antimachos reaffirm their joint claims to the independent kingdom established by Diodotos and expanded by Euthydemos, and through them traces the lineage to the Seleukid kings of Syria and eventually, to Alexander the Great. Alexander, Antiochos I and Pantaleon, another early Baktrian king, are all honored on extremely rare coins of the two successor kings. Eukratides would issue a parallel pedigree coinage when his revolt led to the overthrow of the first Baktrian dynasty.

Classical Numismatic Group, Inc.

Two different epithets are found on these pedigree issues for Diodotos, ΘΕΟΥ or ΣΩΤΗΡΟΣ, sparking the continuing debate on the existence of coinage in the name of Diodotos and his son of the same name. However, variations in titles and portraiture may simply indicate the styles of different mints.

226. Eukratides. Circa 170-145 BC. AR Tetradrachm (16.34 gm). Merv mint? ΒΑΣΙΛΕΥΣ ΜΕΓΑΣ ΕΥΚΡΑΤΙΔΗΣ, helmeted and diademed bust / ΗΛΙΟΚΛΕΟΥΣ ΚΑΙ ΛΑΟΔΙΚΗΣ, jugate busts of Heliokles and Laodike right; monogram behind. MIG 182a; Bopearachchi Série 15, 69-70; Qunduz 245-246. Near EF, slightly porous surfaces. Remarkable high relief Hellenistic portraits. Extremely rare. ($7500)

Eukratides usurped power from Antimachos, the designated successor to Demetrios. To strengthen his position, and declaring his intentions of founding a dynasty, he struck his "pedigree" coinage, naming his parents Heliokles and his wife Laodike.

Until recently, only one tetradrachm of this ephemeral Baktrian king was known, the British Museum specimen.

A Special Offering of Judaeae & Related Coinage

When Meshorer published Jewish Coins of the Second Temple Period in 1967, he knew of only one example of the falcon coinage of Judaea (with lily reverse). In fact, of the six coins listed by him for the Persian period, five were recorded as unique. The Judaea and Samaria region was apparently quite lacking a local coinage. However, by the 1980's several hoards found in the area of Samaria Sebaste and elsewhere in Israel revealed a number of new types of obols, hemiobols and smaller fractions. Numerous examples are now known from the Persian and Hellenistic periods with Hebrew and Aramaic legends naming YHD (province of Judaea) and SMYRN (Samaria), as well as the names of local satraps and other officials. Other issues parallel the fractional Athenian imitations struck at Gaza. The drachm in the British Museum remains a unique larger denomination for Judaea.

240. JUDAEA, Hasmonean Kings. Alexander Jannaeus. 103-76 BC. Æ Prutah (1.45 gm). "Yehonatan the High Priest and the Council of the Jews" within wreath / Twin cornucopiae with pomegranate between. AJC I pg. 123 Ea; Hendin 14. EF, dark green and earthen patina, scarce when fully legible. ($100)

241. JUDAEA, Herodian Kings. Herod I. Year 3 (40 BC). Æ 4 Prutot (5.23 gm). ΒΑΣΙΛΕΥΣ ΗΡΟΔΟΥ, crested helmet / Decorated shield. AJC II pg. 235, 2; Hendin 40; RPC 4902. Good VF, green patina. ($350)

242. Herod Philip. Year 19 (15/16 AD). Æ 20mm (5.93 gm). TIB KAICAP SEBAS, laureate head of Tiberius / ΦΙΛΙΠΠΟΥ ΤΕΤΡΑΡΧΟΥ, tetrastyle temple, date between columns. AJC II pg.245, 7; Hendin 72a; RPC 4943. VF, black patina. Rare. ($1400)

This appears to be the proper reading for the obverse legend, not TIBEPIOS ΣΕ-ΒΑΣΤΟΣ as given in the references.

243. Herod Antipas. Year 33 (29 AD). Æ 21mm (6.11 gm). ΗΡΟΔΟΥ ΤΕΤΡΑΡΧΟΥ, palm branch / ΤΙΒΕΡΙΑΣ in wreath. AJC II pg.242, 6; Hendin pg.68; RPC 4923. VF, black patina. Rare. ($750)

244. Herod Antipas. Year 37 (33 AD). Æ 24mm (13.09 gm). (ΗΡΟΔΟΥ) ΤΕΤΡΑΡΧΟΥ, palm branch / ΤΙΒΕΡΙΑΣ in wreath. AJC II pg.242, 13; Hendin pg.68; RPC 4930. VF, black patina. Rare. ($1000)

Rare Bronze of Agrippa I

245. Agrippa I. Year 7 (43 AD). Æ 25mm (17.08 gm). (ΤΙΒΕΡΙΟΣ) ΚΑΙ-ΚΑΡ ΣΕΒΑΣΤΟΣ ΓΕΡΜΑΝ, laureate head of Claudius / (ΒΑΣΙΛΕΥΣ) ΜΕΓΑΣ ΑΓΡΙΠΠΑΣ ΦΙΛΟΚΑΙΣΑΡ, distyle temple, Agrippa on left, Claudius, veiled and togate on right, both holding paterae, veiled half figure in background holding incense box, kneeling figure in foreground sacrificing pig (!); date in pediment of temple. AJC II pg.248, 8; Hendin 76; RPC 4983. VF, brown patina, off center, but one of the best preserved examples of this rare and enigmatic Judean coin. ($5000)

See the discussion by A. Burnett in "The Coinage of King Agrippa I of Judaea", in Mélanges à Pierre Bastien, pp.25-38. The description of the reverse is based on his reconstruction of the tableau as the ceremony at the temple of Jupiter Capitolinus in Rome wherein Agrippa swears fealty to the emperor. The representation of a pagan ceremony honoring a Roman emperor involving an unclean animal sacrifice on a coin of a Jewish king is rather difficult to comprehend, even as Burnett makes it clear that other theories about the scene are equally untenable. If this coin were struck at Caesarea (and the scarcity of finds at the site of that Hellenized Roman city on the coast does not answer that question one way or the other), it could not have circulated beyond the confines of the Roman and Greek inhabitants without risking an emotional backlash from the native people, were they to understand the significance of the type.

247. Agrippa II. Year 5 (40/41 AD). Æ 14mm (3.13 gm). (ΒΑΣΙΛΕΥΣ) ΑΓΡΙΠΠΙΑ (ΑΓΡΙΠΠΙΕΩΝ [or ΑΓΡΙΠΠΙΑ ΥΙΟΥ]), head of Agrippa II left / (ΒΑ)ΣΙΛΕΥΣ ΑΓΡΙΠΠΙΑ (ΦΙΛΟΚΑΙΣΑΡ), crossed cornucopiae. See AJC II pg.247, 4; RPC 4979; Burnett "The Coinage of King Agrippa I of Judaea", in Mélanges à Bastien, pp.25-38, 5. Fair, cleaned, numerous pits caused by poor alloy mixing. No specimen is known of this coin with complete legends, but the reverse legend on this piece, with the title ΒΑΣΙΛΕΥΣ spelled out in full, appears to be unpublished. ($1500)

261. SAMARIA. Circa 4th Century BC. AR Obol (0.65 gm). Head of Persian satrap left / "SMRYN", Persian king slaying winged fantastic animal. Samaria Hoard 3. Toned VF, weak strike. ($1000)

The Samaria Hoard and other recent finds in the region have revealed an amazingly complex coinage that was unknown until the last decade. Both Samaria and Judaea produced a fractional coinage in the 4th century BC, reproducing Greek and Persian types with legends naming the province. However, Samaria went well beyond the standard types, using types with Persian kings and deities, and animals fantastic and otherwise. The extensive studies by Meshorer and Qedar will be supplemented by further detailed examinations of the unique iconography of the series.

267. NABATAEA. Intact hoard of late AR Drachms. Before 106 AD. A 1st Century Roman terracotta oil lamp with contents -13 Nabataean drachms: Aretas IV. Circa 20-40 AD. Conjoined busts of Aretas and Shuqailat. Type of Meshorer 99. // Aretas IV. Same type, year 42 (33/34 AD). Meshorer Supp. 8. // Malichos II and Shuqailat II. Circa 40-70 AD. Type of Meshorer 123. (5 coins). // Rabbel II and Shuqailat II. Circa 70-76 AD. Type of Meshorer 142. (3 coins). // Rabbel II and Gamilat. Circa 76-102 AD. Type of Meshorer 147. (3 coins). Earliest issues grade Fair to Good, later types VF on usual small flans. 13 coins plus their container. ($2000)

The Nabataean kingdom, like the Hasmoneans and Herodians of Judaea, rose to power in the course of the withering of the Hellenistic empire of the Seleukids. Also like the Judaeans kings, they grew wealthy from the excises taken from the busy trade routes between east and west that ran through their territory. Unlike the Judaeans kings, the Nabataean kings, with their capital at remote Petra, kept a greater degree of independence from the growing Roman empire, at least for a while. One consequence of this was the freedom to produce a silver coinage, which neither the Hasmoneans nor the Herodians ever struck (although debate continues as to whether the late "Tyrian" shekels were minted at Jerusalem.). The oil lamp found with this hoard is the typical "Herodian" style with flaring spatulate spout, in this case chipped away from long use. Carbon stains around the wick hole suggest the lamp was in use long after it normally would have been discarded, and the generally worn condition of the coins suggest they were the meager savings of a poor family, most likely hidden away sometime around the time of the invasion and conquest of the Nabataean kingdom by Trajan in 106 AD. Few Nabataean silver coins of the later kings have survived. They are sometimes found mixed with hoards of denarii of Trajan and Hadrian, but most were used by Trajan to strike his extensive series of Arabia drachms commemorating his conquests. A unique intact hoard from a significant period of Near Eastern history.

Good VF, brown patina. Rare. ($600)

The springs of Panias (Baniyas), the source of the Jordan river, have been a sacred site since earliest antiquity. By the Hellenistic period the Greek god Pan became the titular deity of the springs and under the Herodian kings the city was embellished with numerous temples and shrines to the gods and the Roman emperors, with the grotto as the focal point. This coin shows a remarkably fine representation of the central shrine and statue to Pan.

Excessively Rare 'Judaea' Sestertius of Hadrian

288. HADRIAN. 117-138 AD. Æ Medallitic Sestertius (23.37 gm). 134-138 AD. HADRIANVS AVG COS III PP, laureate bust / IVDAEA SC, to-gate Hadrian standing right, raising kneeling Judaea, three children around, one grasping Hadrian's robe. RIC -; Cohen 871 (SC not noted on reverse); the National Museum at Naples possesses a specimen which is plated in Meshorer, The Coinage of Aelia Capitolina, pg. 22. Good Fine, brown patina. Extremely rare. ($7500)

*A medallitic sestertius is recorded by Cohen at the museum at Pisa in addition to the specimen noted at the National Museum at Naples. The more common type (indeed, an extremely rare type also by most standards), with Judaea standing before Hadrian preparing to offer a sacrifice to the emperor, is associated with Hadrian's travels throughout the eastern empire around 130 AD as part of the adventus series. It was this journey to Judaea, and the revelation of plans for the expansion of Roman influence, especially in Jerusalem, that led to the Bar Kochba revolt of 132. Meshorer in his work on Aelia Capitolina refers to a comment by J.M.C. Toynbee, The Hadrianic School, pp. 119-121, that "the type obviously signifies the 'restoration' of Judaea by the founding of a new centre of civilisation and of urban life at the colony of Aelia Capitolina."*

ROMAN IMPERIAL

Extremely Rare Gold Aureus of Augustus

AV

The supposition in CNR that the reverse type is based on a 4th century BC silver stater of Cumae in Campania seems based on a misapprehension of the true type, which is a crab grasping a mussel shell, the mussel being the standard symbol of Cumae. The other theory, advanced first by Eckhel, that the type reflects a military aphorism supposedly favored by Augustus, the ponderous implacability of a crab overcoming the swiftness of a butterfly, is colorful, but seems rather thin. Leaving aside the question of the butterfly, and its unique occurrence on an ancient coin, the crab motif fits a general theme that runs through the coinage issues of the otherwise unknown Durmius. Besides the crab, which does appear on coins of Cumae, as well as Kroton and Terina in Bruttium, we find a lion bringing down a stag, found on coins of Velia, and a Victory crowning a man-headed bull, from the issues of Neapolis. Other denarii of Durmius reproduce earlier Republican types; a Hercules head from a Romano-Campanian didrachm, the Calydonian boar of C. Hosidius Geta, and the Honos and Virtus heads of L. Aquilius Florus. The suggestion by Burnett (RIC 318-319 note) that the use of earlier types reflects the discovery of a Greek hoard in the 1st century BC does not explain the wide variety of prototypes employed, dating from the 4th through the 1st century BC. Nor does the suggestion by Cavedoni that the Durmii came from Campania explain all the types found. Perhaps the simplest answer is that we have here evidence of an antiquarian dilettante of the 1st century who ordered struck a series of coin types from his personal coin collection.

359. AGRIPPINA JR. Æ Dupondius (16.64 gm). Thracian mint. AGRIPPINA AVG GERMANICI F CAESARIS AVG, draped bust left, hair in long plait down neck / Ceres seated left, holding grain ears and long torch. H-M von Kaenel, "Britannicus, Agrippina Minor und Nero in Thrakien", SNR 63, A9. Good VF, dark brown patina, scattered pitting. ($3000)

Sestertii and dupondii in the name of Agrippina Jr. have been found localized in the Balkan region, and were most likely struck at a local mint servicing the legions guarding the border. The sestertius is the carpentum type listed as RIC 103 (Claudius). Only two specimens of the dupondius were known to von Kaenel, one in very poor condition in the Athens Museum and another that appeared in two Rollin and Feuillant sales in the 19th century (Hoffman 1896, lot 1306 and de Quelen 1888, lot 796). A line drawing of the second coin (A9) in von Kaenel suggests this could be the same coin, although it is more complete in several details than the piece illustrated in the drawing. This could be the result of a later, more thorough cleaning. One thing that is clear is that the supposed reverse legend CERES AVGVSTA SC is not present, the reverse being instead anepigraphic. The lack of reverse legends on the sestertius and dupondius, specifically the SC, would be in keeping with a provincial issue not issued under the nominal authority of the Roman Senate.

Superb 'Triumphal Arch' Nero Sestertius

362. NERO. 54-68 AD. Æ Sestertius (24.88 gm). Lugdunum. 66 AD. IMP-NERO-CAESAR-AVG-PONT-MAX-TR-POT ·P·P, laureate head left, globe at point of bust / S C, triumphal arch surmounted by statue of emperor in quadriga accompanied by Pax and Victory, flanked by two soldiers (torch bearers?), a nude, helmeted statue of Mars in side niche of arch, otherwise decorated with friezes of battle scenes. RIC I 500; WCN 452; BMC 333-334; Giard 139-140. Superb EF, slightly weak strike at high points and extremities with a flawless patina, even olive green on the obverse, slightly darker on the reverse with patches of red. Finest style portrait coupled with an important reverse architectural type. [See color photo on back cover]. ($4500)

This monumental triumphal arch was erected by Nero to commemorate Roman military campaigns against the Parthians in Mesopotamia and Armenia. Although not particularly successful in a military sense, with Paetus losing almost his entire army at Randaia in Armenia, the war did end with a peace treaty favorable to Rome that was upheld for nearly fifty years. This coin type is vitally important for architectural historians, for the arch was dismantled after Nero's ignominious end in 68 AD, and is only known through its depiction on the coins. This particular example, surely one of the finest extant specimens, allows a careful study of the decorative details of the monument.

457. Time of Maximinus II. 312 AD. Æ 14mm (1.35 gm). Alexandria. DEO SA RAPIDI, radiate beardless bust of Sarapis, with modius / VOTA PVBLICA, Harpocrates standing left, finger to mouth, holding cornucopiae. Cohen 87 (Julian II). Good VF, brown patina with patches of green. Rare. ($350)

J. van Heesch, "The Last Civic Coinages and the Religious Policy of Maximinus Daza (312 AD), Num Chron 1993, pp.65-75 has provided the latest chronology for the anonymous civic bronzes of the 4th century. An active campaign of persecution against local Christians, abetted by Maximinus, reached its height in Nicomedia, Antioch and Alexandria. Churches were closed, property was seized from the Christians and they were expelled from many cities. The three major mint cities struck a series of small bronzes honoring the old Greco-Roman gods, Jupiter, Apollo, Tyche and Sarapis among them. The persecutions subsided the following year, possibly as a result of concerns expressed by Constantine and Licinius, the emperors in the west.

The First Facing Portrait On A Roman Coin

458. LICINIUS I. 308-324 AD. AV Aureus (5.27 gm). Nicomedia. 321-322 AD. LICINIVS AVG OB D V FILII SVI, bare-headed, draped and cuirassed facing bust / IOVI CONS LICINI AVG, Jupiter enthroned on platform, holding Victory with wreath and sceptre, eagle with wreath at feet, platform inscribed SIC X SIC XX; SMNT. RIC VII 41; Kent-Hirmer 622; Bellinger et al., "Late Roman Gold and Silver Coins at Dumbarton Oaks", 37. Lustrous choice EF, faint graffiti in reverse field. [See color photo on back cover]. ($20,000)

The obverse legend, "Licinius Augustus, by (the grace) of the gods, the fifth (year) of his son", marks the quinquennalia of Licinius II. The reverse continues the type of Licinius' decennalia in 318. The facing portrait of Licinius, and a parallel issue for his son, is the first frontal representation of an emperor, a style that would become standardized in the late Roman and Byzantine period.

Very Rare Solidus of Constantine I

459. CONSTANTINE I. 307-337 AD. AV Solidus (4.52 gm). Nicomedia mint. Struck early in 326 AD. Diademed head of Constantine with his eyes raised to God / CONSTANTINVS AVG, conjoined wreaths. RIC VII 108; cf. Alföldi 41. Good VF. Very rare. ($5000)

460. CONSTANS. 337-350 AD. AR Siliqua (3.25 gm). Trier. 347-348 AD. FL IVL CONS TANS PF AVG diademed (laurels and rosettes) bust / VICTORIA DD NN AVGG, Victory holding wreath and palm; TR. RSC 152b; RIC VIII 177 (R3). Choice toned EF. ($900)

Rare Gold Solidus of Julian II

463. JULIAN II, the Apostate. 360-363 AD. AE 28mm (8.36 gm). Antioch. DN FL CL IVLIA NVS P P AVG, diademed bust / SECVRITAS REIPVB, bull; palm ANTI palm. RIC VIII 216; LRBC 2640. Choice EF, smooth dark green patina. ($600)

Finest style naturalistic portrait. The beard is shown short and curly, unlike the typical straight-flowing triangle normally encountered. The use of triple diadem ends shown on this coin is a curiosity that appears at irregular intervals at Antioch and Nicomedia in the last half of the 4th century.

464. JOVIAN. 363-364 AD. AE 28mm (8.97 gm). Antioch. DN IOVIANVS P P AVG, diademed bust / VICTORIA ROMANORVM, emperor holding labarum and Victory on globe; ANTA. RIC VIII 228; LRBC 2645. Choice EF, dark brown patina. ($750)

465. PROCOPIUS. 365-366 AD. AE 18mm (2.90 gm). Constantinople. DN PROCOPIVS PF AVG, diademed bust left / REPARATIO FEL TEMP, emperor holding labarum with radiate sun and shield, small object at feet, Christogram in upper field; CONSA. RIC IX 17a.6; LRBC 2082. EF, black patina. ($500)

The small object at the feet of the emperor on the reverse has never been satisfactorily explained. It is most often represented with a round top set upon a columnar base, and resembles the palladium found on earlier Roman coins. The Palladium was the statue of Athena taken by Aeneas from the collapse of Troy and brought to Italy. Subsequently, the Romans regarded it as one of the most important symbols of divine favor protecting the city and its empire. On this coin of Procopius we have the Christogram, symbol of the new religion taking hold across the empire, the radiate sun in the labarum, symbol of the cult of Sol that spread from the east beginning in the second century AD, and the palladium, symbol of the most ancient Roman cult. Procopius has neatly captured all the facets comprising Roman public religion.

466. GRATIAN. 367-383 AD. AV Solidus (4.47 gm). Trier. 367-375 AD. DN GRATIANVS PF AVG, diademed (with rosettes) bust / VICTORIA AVGG; two emperors enthroned, holding globe, Victory behind them; TROBT. RIC IX 17g.5. Superb EF. ($900)

ROMAN PROVINCIAL

The Damnatio Memoriae of Sejanus

A man of limitless ambition and supreme patience, Sejanus came within an ace of the imperial throne. He succeeded his father as Praetorian Prefect, and as a capable administrator he quickly gained the favor of Tiberius, who called him 'socius laborum' (partner of our labors). Over a span of two decades he gradually increased his influence and eliminated imperial rivals. It was later suspected that he had even engineered the poisoning of Tiberius' son Drusus, whose wife Sejanus had seduced. His path was further cleared when he persuaded Tiberius to leave Rome and retire to Capraea. Sejanus secured provincial army commands for his friends, obtained Tiberius' permission to marry a member of the imperial family (presumably Drusus' widow Livilla), and was nominated as joint consul with Tiberius for 31. He had clearly established himself as the successor. Finally, however, Tiberius' suspicions were aroused when he received a message from Antonia that made him doubt Sejanus' loyalty. Tiberius acted with caution. He summoned to Capraea, and safety, the future emperor Caligula, although it was soon learned that Caligula's brother Nero was dead, thanks no doubt to Sejanus. Tiberius resigned his consulship in May of 31, and Sejanus had to do the same. Next Tiberius appointed a replacement to Sejanus as Praetorian Prefect and secured the allegiance of the Vigiles. On the 18th of October in 31, Sejanus attended the Senate to hear the consul read a despatch from Tiberius in which he expected he would be given the tribunician power, but in fact the despatch denounced him as a traitor. The Senate condemned him, he was strangled in prison, and his body was torn to pieces by the mob. A reign of terror followed, in which Sejanus' children and many of his partisans were put to death.

The coinage of Bilbilis marks the joint consulship of Tiberius and Sejanus, and evidently a quantity of the coinage had already been struck and was held in the treasury at the time of Sejanus' unexpected condemnation. The systematic removal of Sejanus' name on this coinage apparently represents the first numismatic damnatio memoriae under the Empire.

See Price and Trelle fig. 113 for identical reverse type under Domitian; also "A Numismatic Commentary on Pausanias", pl. C-XLVII. Near VF, rough surfaces. Rare. ($250)

The Meta Sudans in Rome was a monumental fountain conceived as part of the Colosseum complex planned by Titus, and appears on his Colosseum sestertius. There is no documentary or archaeological evidence for such a fountain in Corinth, but it would have been appropriate for the site of the Isthmian games.

The giant Antaeus, the son of Poseidon and Mother Earth, was in the habit of forcing strangers to wrestle him until they were exhausted, whereupon he killed them. Not only was he a strong and skilled athlete, but whenever he touched his mother, the earth, his strength was revived. Herakles and Antaeus met while Herakles was out travelling for his labors, and Herakles became determined to end this barbarous practice. He accepted Antaeus' challenge to a wrestling match and realizing that Antaeus was a son of Mother Earth, he lifted Antaeus in the air, off the ground, until he crushed him to death. This rare mythological type is known for Years 5, 6 and 24 from Alexandria. The present specimen combines a new reverse die for year 5 with the extremely rare dated (LE) obverse die; also used for other mythological types that year such as "Orpheus Charming the Animals" and "The Judgment of Paris".

518. CHIOS, Under Genoese Rule. Rafael Adorno? 1443-1447. AV Ducat (3.50 gm). Imitation of a Venetian ducat of Tommaso Mocenigo. •SIT TXPE•DAT D-•VS IS ISTE DVCAT•, Christ in Glory / TOM NOCEMIO DVX SM VEMIT, Doge kneeling before St. Mark; R or RA monogram to left. Cf. Gamberini 396 (Anonymous). EF. ($450)

The first decades of the Genoese occupation of Chios saw the production of great quantities of more or less accurate copies of Venetian ducats for use by Italian traders in the east. Tomaso Campo Fregoso (1415-1421) was the first Genoese to make his ducats with his own name, although they still copied Venetian types. Rafael Adorno did strike one issue in his name, signed RAFAEL ADV (Gamberini 401). Is this another issue with a less obvious signature?

Silver Nomoi of Neapolis in Campania

Neapolis (the "new city") – modern Naples – was founded in fertile territory by Cumae c. 600 BC. According to legend, the site was originally named for the siren Parthenope, who supplied the type for the coins and whose name was an alternate name for the city. The reverse of the coins depicts the river god Achelous, father of the sirens, being crowned by a Nike who may symbolize either the annual games held in honor of Parthenope or other periodic games held in honor of Achelous.

Silver Nomoi of Metapontion in Lucania

The ancient Achaean colony of Metapontion was resettled in the early 6th century BC under the leadership of Leukippos. Its location on the Gulf of Taranto inspired the city's name, which means "beside the sea," and the fertility of the land no doubt suggested the adoption of the barley ear as the civic badge.

Silver Nomoi and Double Nomoi of Thourioi in Lucania

In response to an appeal from displaced Sybarites, Athens in 444 BC sponsored the foundation of a mixed colony under Athenian leadership on the deserted site of ancient Sybaris, whose name the colony at first assumed. The colonists included such celebrated men as the orator Lysias and the historian Herodotus. Within a few years disputes arose between the newcomers and the original Sybarites, who were expelled, whereupon the city was renamed after a local spring called Thuria.

The types for the city's coinage were borrowed from its two parent cities, Athena from Athens and the bull from Sybaris. Athena appears in an Attic helmet, which had not previously been used on western coinage, but was in the future to be widely imitated. The bull has been modified from its original Sybarite form with head reverted, and is shown at first walking with head lowered and later in more violent action, butting and pawing the ground. In this aspect the bull may represent the spring Thuria from which the city took its name. The mullet which often appears in the exergue beneath the bull also suggests an aquatic connection.

Silver Nomoi of Velia in Lucania

Velia (Hyele) was a latecomer among the Greek cities of South Italy, founded about 540 BC by Phokaian refugees from the Persian conquest of their home in Ionia. The lion, sometimes shown devouring prey, is derived from Asia Minor and so represents the origins of the populace. The nymph Hyele was chosen for the head type of the early coinage, but the influence of the mint of Thourioi led to the adoption in the late 5th century of a head of Athena wearing a crested Attic helmet (see introduction to the coinage of Thourioi).

Gold Staters of Alexander the Great

Alexander established a comprehensive system of mints to supply coinage throughout his vast empire. The basic designs were selected by the central authority, no doubt by Alexander himself, although variations of ornamentation and great variations in style afforded the engravers ample opportunity for individual artistic expression.

For the designs of his principal gold coin, Alexander selected patriotically Hellenic types. The obverse depicts the head of Athena right wearing a crested Corinthian helmet, decorated (usually) with a coiled snake. Athena, the goddess of wisdom and bringer of victory and freedom, was a natural symbol as patroness of the Greeks in their confrontation with the Orient. The reverse design, a Nike standing left holding a victory wreath in her outstretched right hand and a mast (stylis) in her left, is a reference to naval victory. In the absence of any specific victory by Alexander that could be thus commemorated, this type must allude to the general naval superiority of the Greeks as a seafaring people, and in particular to the supreme united naval success in their history, the victory over the Persians in the battle of Salamis. The design is completed by the symbols and monograms of individual mints and magistrates.

Silver Tetradrachms of Alexander the Great

In contrast to his gold coinage, for the silver Alexander chose universal types that could appeal not only to the Greeks but throughout his empire. The obverse head of Herakles wearing the skin of the Nemean lion was a suitable type for a warrior king. Herakles had also appeared on earlier regal Macedonian issues, for it was through this hero that the Macedonian royal line could claim to be of truly Greek descent. In the east, this figure could be equally identified as the Phoenician Melqart. The reverse type of Zeus enthroned, holding an eagle and sceptre, marks a continuation of the depiction of Zeus on Philip's coinage, as well as marking Alexander's claim to be the leader of the Greek states. In addition, Zeus in this pose could be interpreted as the Cilician Baaltars and the Babylonian Marduk.

Silver Tetradrachms of Perseus of Macedon

Perseus bore a name which had no precedent in the Macedonian royal house. The mythical Perseus had been an Argive hero, the slayer of the Gorgon and the saviour of Andromeda. Perseus' mother, the wife of Philip V, was an Argive, and it was most likely her influence which induced Philip to adopt Perseus as his patron deity, to place him on his own coinage, and to name his eldest son after him.

The last king of Macedon, Perseus had the misfortune to ascend the throne when the growing power of Rome made conflict virtually inevitable. He attempted through tact and diplomacy to placate the Romans, but the intrigues of his neighbor Eumenes of Pergamum, coupled with Roman suspicion, led to the final Macedonian war in 171 BC. The Roman commander Aemilius Paullus brought Perseus to battle at Pydna in a decisive battle that finished Macedon as an independent state.

Perseus appears on the coinage in an aggressive, powerful portrait, wearing the royal diadem. The oak wreath on the reverse recalls Zeus of Dodona, and the eagle on thunderbolt, likewise adopted from Zeus, is to be seen as the personal device of Perseus himself. Perseus' early coinage was struck on the Attic weight standard (c. 17 gm), but he changed to a reduced weight standard of c. 15.5 gm in 171 BC when the final conflict with Rome began.

New Style Silver Tetradrachms of Athens

Athens produced a steady supply of tetradrachms from the early 5th century BC to the conquest of the city by Demetrios Poliorketes in 294 BC. The "owls" popularity as an international trade currency and standard of value led to an extreme conservatism of style that, while allowing their ready acceptance over much of the ancient world, has reduced modern numismatists to seeking minute variations in details to properly classify the series. The crude, lumpy tetradrachms of the late-4th century are a sad remnant of a respected heritage. There were occasional issues through the 3rd century, notably after Athens regained its freedom from Macedonia in 229 BC, but the next active period of minting began in the 2nd century with a renewed period of prosperity for Athens, exemplified by the introduction of the broad flan New Style tetradrachm.

Although keeping the basic design elements, the New Style tetradrachms offered a drastic revamping of details. The archaizing head of Athena was replaced with a somewhat florid adaptation of the Athena Parthenos of Pheidias, her ornate triple-crested helmet decorated with florets and rivets, a flying Pegasus and a quadriga of horse protomes across the visor. The owl now stands upon an amphora, surrounded by a wreath, from which the coins acquired the common name of stephanophoroi or "wreath bearers," as they are recorded in ancient inscriptions of the mid-2nd century. Most importantly for modern numismatists, the tetradrachms now bore magistrates' names, mint symbols, and even the months in which they were struck. Margaret Thompson, in The New Style Silver Coinage of Athens, brought together all previous work on the series and organized all known types and dies in a secure sequence.

There seems to be little controversy over the internal order of issues, but the absolute dating of the series is still subject to vigorous debate. Thompson herself revised her initial date of circa 196 BC for the beginning of the series, but dates between 185 and 160 BC are still promoted by different authorities. The date of 185 BC proposed by Otto Mørkholm is adopted for this catalogue.

Electrum Hektes of Phokaia and Mytilene

Around 400 BC, the city of Mytilene on Lesbos and the city of Phokaia on the mainland entered into a monetary alliance, with each city to mint for both in alternate years. The weight of the hektes and the composition of the man-made electrum were carefully legislated, and the penalty for intentional violation of the standards by a mint magistrate was death. This system led to a highly varied and artistic series of coinage, while the issues of each city were carefully distinguished. The coinage of Mytilene has both obverse and reverse designs, while the coinage of Phokaia has only an incuse for the reverse and in addition bears a small seal (φωκη) as an adjunct symbol, a punning reference to the name of the city.

Silver Staters of Aspendos in Pamphylia

Aspendos lay several miles up the then navigable river Eurymedon and was an important port and naval base. Certainly on two occasions a major Persian fleet was concentrated there: in about 467 on the occasion of Cimon's victory, and again in 410. Shortly after the latter date the city instituted a new coinage featuring on the obverse two wrestlers coming to grips and on the reverse a slinger in action with the ethnic written beside. The legend "Estvediys," although written in Greek, is the Pamphylian form of the name Aspendos. The triskeles, which was the civic badge and had featured more prominently on the city's earlier coinage, was relegated to the position of a symbol. Successive issues were distinguished by additional symbols or letters in the field. The considerable output of coinage is evidence of the prosperity and importance of the city.

Silver Staters of Nagidos in Cilicia

Nagidos started coining in the last quarter of the 5th century and continued until the arrival of Alexander. The mint was not a major one, however, as it consumed only 31 obverse dies for staters in the whole of this period. The civic types are executed in elegant detail: on the obverse a seated Aphrodite, sacrificing from a phiale over a flaming, garlanded altar, is crowned from behind by Eros; on the reverse a standing Dionysos holds a grape cluster and thyrsos.

Silver Staters of Mazaïos, Satrap of Cilicia

Mazaïos had a long and successful career, first in the Persian Empire and then under Alexander the Great. He served as satrap of Cilicia under both Artaxerxes III and Darius III, and in 345 BC he was rewarded for good service by the addition of Phoenicia to his satrapy. In 331 Mazaïos, now Persian satrap of Babylon, guarded the Euphrates until Alexander arrived, but withdrew at his approach and let him cross unopposed. He commanded the Persian right wing at the battle of Gaugamela in October of 331 BC and distinguished himself, but ordered a retreat when deserted by Darius. He surrendered Babylon to Alexander and was rewarded by being confirmed in his satrapy.

Mazaïos' coinage as satrap of Cilicia employed Aramaic legends and the local types of Baal of Tarsos and the lion and bull, the civic emblem of Tarsos. In addition to his local connection, Baal had the added advantage of universality, as he could be interpreted by Greek mercenaries as Zeus.

Silver Tetradrachms of the Ptolemies of Egypt

In 332 BC, Alexander the Great was crowned at Memphis as Pharaoh of Egypt, beginning a period of Greek rule that ended with the suicide of Cleopatra. Ptolemy, one of Alexander's generals, became satrap of Egypt after Alexander's death and declared himself king in 305 BC. He consolidated his position and, aided by the natural and easily defended borders of Egypt, established the most successful and long-lived dynasty among the successors of Alexander. Once Ptolemy I had established the political and military power of Egypt, Ptolemy II established the country's cultural supremacy in the Hellenistic world, building the famous Museum and Library, as well as the Pharos and a canal from the Nile to the Red Sea. The Library remained unparalleled for the remainder of its existence.

Ptolemy I placed his own portrait on the tetradrachms. He is represented with the attributes of Zeus, wearing the aegis over his shoulders. He adopted the eagle and thunderbolt of Zeus as his personal device, and these appear on the reverse. Ptolemy's successors honored the founder of the dynasty by continuing to use his types down to the time of Cleopatra.

Silver Tetradrachms of Eukratides of Baktria

As his coins declare, Eukratides was a warrior king. About 176 BC, he appeared in Baktria with a small force and raised a revolt against Demetrios, who was at the time campaigning in India. In the lengthy civil war that ensued Eukratides was victorious, and thereafter during his long reign he fought to enlarge his kingdom, including moving across the Hindu Kush and south into Arachosia. He appears on his coins equipped for war, wearing a crested bronze calvary helmet adorned with a bull's horn and ear. Beneath his helmet he wears the traditional royal diadem. At his shoulder can be detected the plates of his cuirass. On the reverse he styles himself a "great" king, implying that he was an overlord of whom other kings were vassals. The mounted Dioskouroi, Castor and Polydeuces, were warlike deities appropriate to a warrior king.

Bronze Folles of the Tetrarchy

The upheaval of the Military Anarchy in the mid-3rd century exhausted the Empire, leaving it in need of the comprehensive reforms of Diocletian which were intended to restore stability in all spheres of life. After establishing himself as emperor, Diocletian recognized that the government and defense of such a vast and diverse empire were too great a responsibility for a single ruler and that local insurrection could be more easily controlled by a division of power within the Empire. He therefore appointed Maximianus as joint emperor in charge of the western provinces while Diocletian himself maintained control over the east. In 293 AD, the system was further refined by the appointment of two Caesars, Constantine I (under Maximianus) and Galerius (under Diocletian), and the developed form of the Tetrarchy was thus established.

After the dramatic debasement of the coinage during the Military Anarchy, a complete reform of the coinage was necessary for the re-establishment of a stable economy. Diocletian accomplished his comprehensive reform in successive stages. First he introduced gold aurei on a heavier standard of 60 instead of 70 to the pound. Next he introduced a new silver coin, the argenteus, of about the same weight and fineness of the old denarius. Finally, in about 295 AD, he introduced a new bronze coin, the follis, approximately equal in size to the as of the earlier empire. In conjunction with the reform, it became routine to place a mint mark on the reverse, so from this time onward the coins may be easily attributed by mint. Follis weights were maintained within the original weight tolerance of about 8.5-11 grams for a decade after the reform, but weights then began to drop in 307 AD with the deterioration of the political system, and within a generation the original large bronzes had been gradually reduced to the small AE3's and AE4's of the late Constantinian period.
